

Re: biquintiles, tredeciles and more :)

Hi folks,

A biquintile on its own, is considered a mildly positive aspect in terms of astrotrading.

Just as important as the aspect itself, is the planet on either end, their signs and rulerships etc, that will add to/detract from the strength of the aspect.

If Venus is triggering a biquintile aspect, then it will likely show a stronger result.

On looking at the "big picture stuff", it is a lot easier to appreciate the biquintile aspects.

In numerical terms, 144 (degrees) coincides with the 11th number in the Fibonacci sequence (89×1.618).

Of course, there's a direct bearing between 1.618, Venus and the Earth, but it is Venus that traces out a pentacle star (5-pointed) star on the internal pattern of its mandala, as it manoeuvres across the heavens, in its 8 year cycle.

To line up 5 planetary bodies, all separated by 72 degrees ($72 \times 5 = 360 = \text{pentagon}$), would seem to be an uncommon pattern in the heavens and it's true.

However, the same 5 points can be conjoined with five biquintiles to form a pentacle star, as well.

When a pentacle star becomes evident in the heavens, we should be alert for some action, in the near future.

For example, on the eve of the 2003 invasion into Iraq, a pentacle star was evident in the skies above ... later, in November 2004 we saw another pentacle star. That occurrence is detailed in the pages, below, primarily for the benefit that those graphics may bring, as well.

Hi folks,

Just had a reminder about the pentacle star ... to be honest, it had slipped off the radar on this end.

Please see chart above for an overview of today's pentacle star.

Having seen this symbol in the charts previously, the pentacle star is a portent of some importance, particularly on the world stage and the US markets, as well.

My own thoughts:

You will remember the last time we saw this formation in March 2003 was on the eve of the Invasion of Iraq and appropriately today, we see Coalition troops being readied for another invasion in Iraq, at Fallujah.

This comes exactly 18 months, after hostilities were "officially declared ended", by Bush, in early May 2003.

Given that this pentacle star is made up of some significant planets, we cannot pass it off lightly and maybe we should be looking closer at the events leading up to this pentacle star, as it has been in applying mode.

Of course, the US markets were in a short-term downtrend, until the results of the election were known it is probably not surprising, they have had a rally since, as with Bush at the reins again, the markets are really expecting "more-of-the-same" ... ie a buoyant market, climbing a "wall of worries" each time any bad news is released, the market will take a small dip, then continue to rally ... see a DOW chart from March 2003 (Iraq Invasion) to February 2004 (start of election jitters).

So, if the DOW futures can clear the previous highs, at about 10800, then the rally is probably sustainable from here

Back to the pentacle star now ... let's look at the astrochart from a mundane view, starting with us, here on earth.

From a geodetic view:

Earth today, at 13-14 Taurus and as this pentacle star was applying, we were also transiting Palestine, giving us the Arafat connection and it may be, that UN troops will be call into the region, when Arafat is pronounced dead, as the unrest will almost certainly bring on some more bloodshed between all the factions, seeking to take the reins.

This is shown on our chart, as the moon's North/South Node transits and their aspects to Uranus, with Mars to trigger the South Node in Scorpio, around 15 November 2004.

MERCURY is making negative aspects to both Uranus and the North Node, so it is not surprising that the news out of Arafat's camp is both negative and vague.

SATURN is on station today to turn retrograde, over the next couple of days (08112004) and it will also transit its opposition to New York and Washington DC, in retrograde, in the near future.

SATURN is also biquintile Pluto, making for some explosive and hidden (underground?) connections with the US east coast (??) by way of the current Saturn opposition.

News out of Guantanamo Bay may also become evident soon, as Saturn will also make an opposition to that longitude, as it goes retrograde, too.

MARS is also making a square to Saturn today.

VENUS/JUPITER conjunction may indicate a HUGE change of attitude to the (money?) markets, ... as they are now conjunct on the same degree as the Sun , on 03 October 1931 = close of the NYSE for 3 or 4 days.

October 1931 saw 827 banks close, adding to the 1300 that had closed throughout 1930.

It may well be that the Moon will be the trigger for that aspect on 09112004, as it also transits the same degree.

Moon currently transiting 144 degrees.

Though not implicated in the pentacle star, our SUN is making a square to Neptune and a tredecile to Uranus (with both planets in mutual reception now) may also put the spotlight back on oil prices very soon, with the tredecile indicating a change of trend.

Today's date is harmonically tuned to the 5-pointed pentacle star ,too:

$$06\ 11\ 2004 = 14 = 5$$

have a great weekend all
