Looking into 2007 .... :)

Hi folks,
Ahead, we present our astroanalysis, that may shed some light on some market sectors, which may perform well, during 2007 and a mundane look some important issues, that our Federal government may be facing, as we enter the new calendar year ..... :)

WIth Jupiter recently making its ingress into its own sign, we can surely count on some BIG events, throughout the 2007 calendar year.
Many speculative ventures should benefit from some positive cycles coming into play, over the next year ... in particular, the gambling, horse-racing and equine industries, in general.

Along the same road, we can also expect a revival in Consumer Discretionary spending, so a revival in movies, rodeos, C&W music, all types of horse-racing and anything, that may be connected with horses, will probably find good support over the next year.

For example, even if there's no takeover soon, February 2007 should bring some BIG news for both JUM and GLO .....

As posted in our overview of 2006, oil prices have pulled back, but in 2007 we can expect more volatile prices, due to Saturn/Neptune oppositions in late-February and mid-June 2007 bringing oil prices down .....
..... Jupiter/Neptune sextiles in mid-March and the end of October '07 should bring us steadily steadily rising prices, with a BIG spike in oil prices most likely, between 29102007 and 02112007.

EMR is another oiler that should rally, especially about 05-09012007 ..... refer to EMR thread for more details.

TEX, a recent ipo, should also show strength, around 15-21022007 and NWE is another junior oiler, that should perform well in 2007, along with ARQ, CPN, BOW, COI, NEO and GLX ..... :)

GOLD:
Speculative gold stocks should also perform better in 2007 ... ALD ???
With the recent pressure on the US dollar, gold has started to lift again and if that slide in US dollar continues, then more traders should buy into gold, keeping upward pressure on the gold price.
This lift comes, just as Jupiter makes its ingress into Sagittarius, where it is ruler and also trine to Leo, home sign of speculation, including gold !
So, until mid-December 2007, there should be some underlying, upward pressure on the gold price.

Other sectors that may perform well in 2007, due to Jupiter/Neptune sextile, include:
Energy sector:
- Oil companies
- Oilfield equipment and drilling services
- Hot-rock power generators
Chemicals sector ... may be offset by negative Jupiter/Uranus square(???)
- Agricultural
- Explosives
Pharmaceuticals and hitech sectors ... mixed bag here, as some counters may be offset by negative Jupiter/Uranus square(???), while others will benefit from Jupiter/Neptune sextile.
Veterinary drugs should grow strongly, particularly equine drugs, as Jupiter traverses Sagittarius,
Beer and wine sector should recover, as Jupiter moves away from its previous square with Neptune ... watch FGL on ASX for example, as we look for a strong rally, near the end of January 2007.
Gold - should be buoyant with Jupiter trine Leo through 2007.
Forestry - should be strong, with Jupiter trine Saturn, this year.
- for example, watch Saturn retrograde cycles for swings in timber stocks, like TIM on ASX ... :)
Long-distance airline carrier and aerospace (defence) sectors should also perform well, with Neptune in an air sign and Jupiter sextile Neptune.
Long-distance railroad specialists should also benefit from Jupiter in Sagittarius, bringing on the "iron horse effect."

Leisure sectors should also boom in 2007, including photographics, toys, all sports and gym equipment, as well as hotels, leisure resorts, cruise lines (particularly long-distance).
Casinos and any form of gambling or speculation should thrive in 2007, with Jupiter trine Leo, which has the natural attributes of the 5th house.
Publishing houses should have a good year, especially those who have cut costs, by moving away from hard-copy printing, into electronic publishing ..... religious books should be a huge money spinner for established publishers, over the coming year.
Some power producers and water utilities should perform well in 2007, but care must be taken in analysis of these companies, due to hidden and explosive nature of cost blowouts.

Without doubt, the main focus will be on the speculative end of the stock market, over the next 12 months ..... :)

Some sectors, that may contract or stage a mediocre peformance in 2007, may include:
Housing ... with Saturn in Leo, until early-September 2007, house prices are likely to remain flat-to-down particularly on the eastern seaboard of Australia.
Zinc stocks, like ZFX on ASX, a will likely see a slump in the share price, in early-August 2007.
Computer-related stocks and some IT companies may also struggle in the coming year .... TLS on ASX for example should figure well in January 2007, but it will not be until April/May 2008, when TLS should be booming, again.

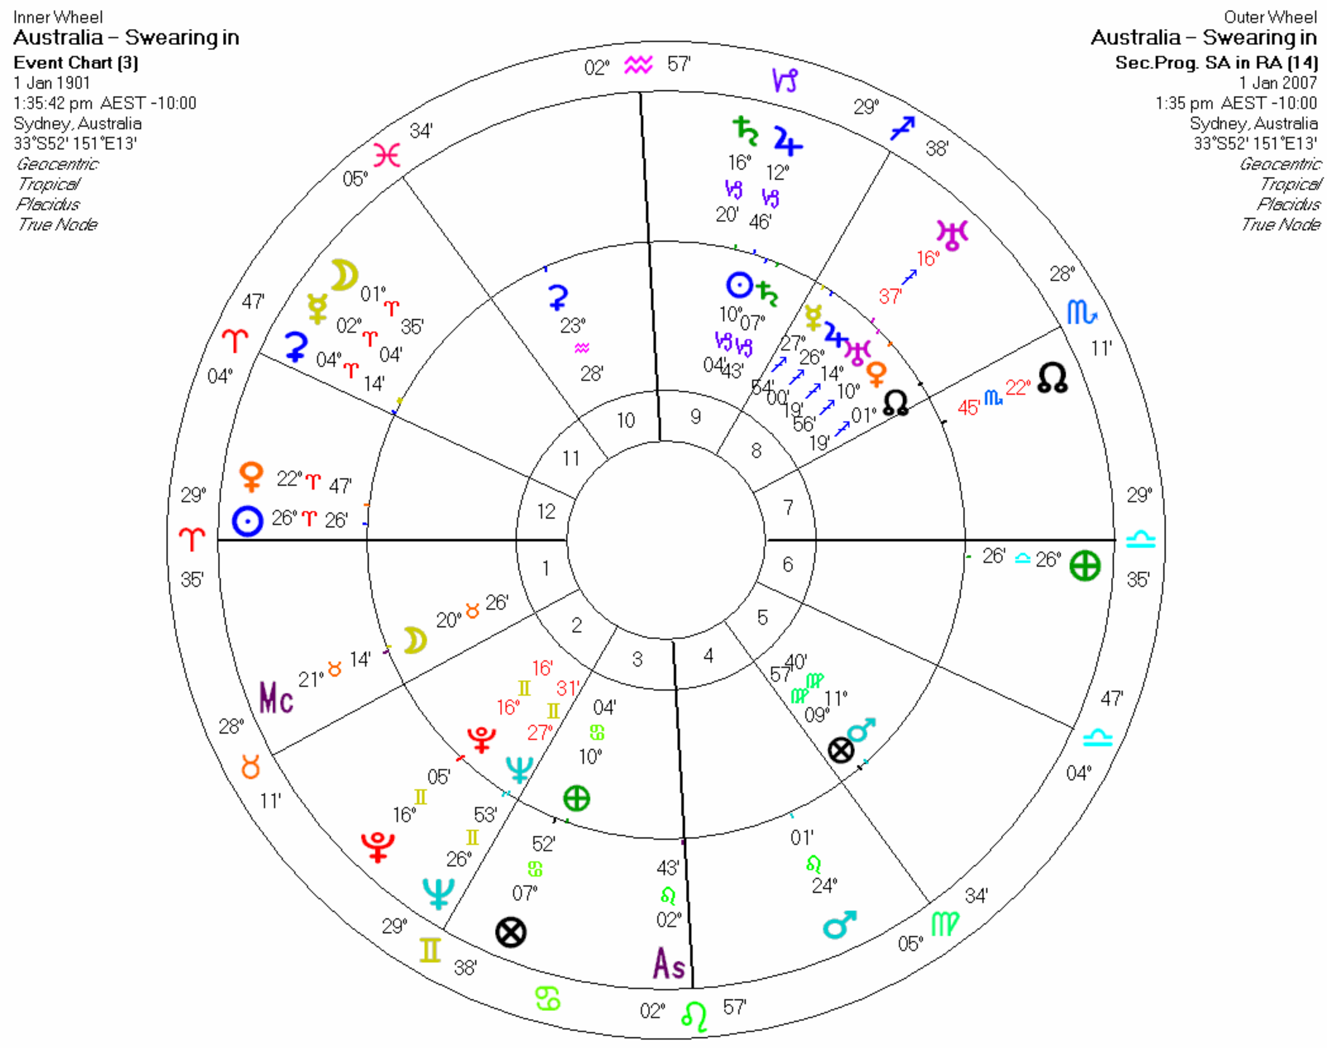
Many uranium and hitech stocks should come off the boil in 2007.

XJO ... as we have seen recently, there's times when the Aussie market CAN trade on its own merits and 15-21022007 should be a very strong period for XJO, despite any influences of the US markets.

Geodetically, we can see that both Jupiter and Saturn are in fire signs, so we can probably expect the drought in eastern Australia to continue, with a VERY HIGH danger of severe bushfires and property damage.

Likewise in the USA, we will be alert for some BIG fires, particularly between longitudes 90 degrees and 120 degrees West .... !~!

In the progressed chart for the Aussie Federation of States below, we can see that the government will be making an issue of water in the early part of 2007, with the progressed Sun and Venus close to the Ascendant. With progressed Venus inconjunct (quincunx) from progressed North Node, we should be seeing some major changes in water conservation, collection and distribution, but it will not be an easy road.



However, this is simply a ruse to divert attention from another issue, specifically the AWB wheat bribes scandal ..... it has NOT gone away yet and we should be hearing a lot more, about the lies and hidden financial deals, that have all been part of the deception, in this debacle.

This is evident by progressed Uranus opposite natal Pluto (hidden and explosive stuff), along with progressed Saturn quincunx (difficult aspect) natal Pluto, as well. To reinforce the deception, the progressed Sun (government) is on the Ascendant (outward projection to people), while it is sextile to Neptune, making the lies and deception easier to accomplish and perpetuate ..... see chart above.

With Moon/Mercury/Ceres (grains) conjunct in early degrees of Aries, these issues will be aired in a very public way, as that triple conjunction makes a tredecile aspect to the Nation's natal Uranus.

Comparing the current transits chart with the 1901 chart of Federation, we can see Venus high in the chart, near the MC, making it easy for the government to make an issue about water and/or the Aussie Dollar.

But, over coming weeks, 2 aspects involving Mercury will both be triggered, bringing both difficult (Saturn) and hidden details into the open, after being hidden (Pluto) for a long time.

These can be seen in the chart below, where transiting Mercury will soon be conjunct the Federation's natal Saturn, which means this news may well be abbreviated at first, but transiting Saturn being sesquisquare to the States' natal Saturn will reinforce a difficult and sustained outpouring of news, no matter how difficult it may be to procure, at first.

Likewise, transiting Pluto will soon make it pass over the Federation's natal Mercury and with natal Jupiter conjunct, this news will likely be BIG and explosive news for our government.

With transiting Sun trine natal Mars on 02012007, some aggressive and healthy speculation about these issues, may be a feature of the opening week of 2007, as well ..... ☺

Chart of Federation of Australian States 1901 and current transits.

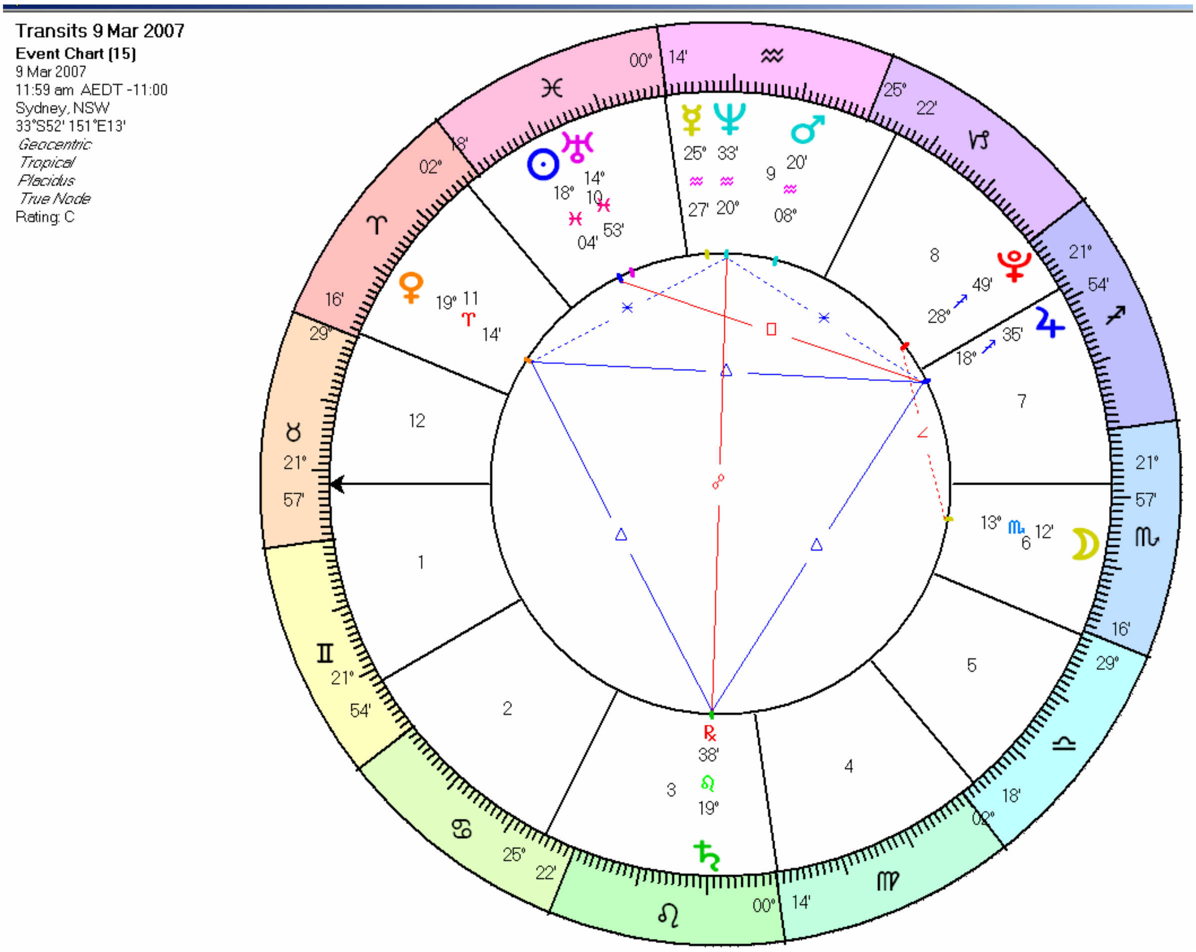
Ceres (grains) is now stationed square to natal North Node, making the necessary, long-term changes difficult to implement ..... this is a huge issue for our government and has the potential to unseat some of the pollies, as this saga unfolds.

There's also two other major astrological events, that we should mention in this forecast, as you will no doubt be hearing about their consequences, later in the year.

Firstly, we have a grand trine on 09 March 2007, between Venus, Jupiter and Saturn, which is also part of a kite, with a focal axis on the opposition, between Saturn and Neptune, at that time.

Oil prices around this time may be quite volatile, as we have the opposition tending to contract prices, while the Jupiter and Venus/ Neptune sextiles will account for the positive spikes in oil prices.

With the Aussie Dollar at that time, some significant swings will likely come into play, as Jupiter and Saturn jockey for control over Venus ..... overall, we should see some good gains being made for the little Au$$ie battler. ☺



Transits 09 March 2007

Some stocks that may be worth monitoring around that time, may be:

CBA, CTS, ACR, ALR, AUI, SUR, CDH, CMQ ... mostly negative aspects.

KNH, TEH, BEI, BER, TWR, CPI, CPR ... mostly positive aspects, here.

Now, without any doubt, the biggest astrological event for Australia in 2007, will take place, around 10 December 2007, when we will see a stellium of planets in Sagittarius, focused on the Galactic Centre, at 27 degrees Sagittarius.

That day, our Moon will trigger this monster conjunction, between transiting Jupiter (expansive), Pluto (hidden, underground, explosive) and the Galactic Centre (Centre of Universe) .....

Moon/Jupiter/Pluto conjunct Galactic Centre – 10122007

... that same lunar move will also trigger a tredecile aspect, between Saturn and the Jupiter/Pluto/GC/ conjunction, as well as a sextile between Mars & Saturn (fire and ice). Mars in Cancer tells us of home country affairs.

Mercury is also square Uranus that day, indicating some significant and negative news coming our way, possibly in regard to hitech counters, drug-makers, health funds or institutions, like hospitals, prisons, etc.

That stellium and conjunction, in the 4th house reinforces the notion of home country affairs and this is especially borne out, when we look at the final chart in this forecast ..... and it is actually the first one we looked at, for the Federation of Australian States.

Federation of Australian States 1901 and 10122007 transits charts

If we line it up against the transits for 10 December 2007 (see chart above) we can see that the stellium and huge conjunction in the transit chart, lines up on the natal Mercury and Jupiter of Australia, with transiting Mercury and Sun making their own pass over those natal points and the Galactic Centre some ten days later (19-20122007), bringing us even more news.

Some specific ASX stocks to watch, around 10122007 will be:

BOQ – BXP - TOX

Believe it, whatever hidden news (Pluto/Mercury conjunct) is awaiting for us, at the end of 2007, it will be HUGE (Jupiter/GC/Pluto conjunct) and it will also directly affect Australia, as a whole !~!

May God bless you with happy trading in 2007, folks.
