SIMILES

Reread page 74. The author writes the following simile:

"Many strikers swarmed over the mine properties like hornets when you break their nest!"

The sentence compares two things that seem to be unlike each other, miners and hornets. This helps us to imagine angry miners running in all directions and compare them to angry hornets flying everywhere. The word "like", or "as" always connects the two ideas in a simile.

Choose the best answer to complete the following similes and write it on the lines below.

...ants in an underground colony.	...a pot of water boiling over.	...bees looking for flowers.
-----------------------------------	---------------------------------	------------------------------

The hot tempers of the miners and their bosses were like _____

The children hunted all over the field for wild berries like _____

The men worked down in the mines each day like _____

Write your own simile below, using the word "like" or "as".
