

What Will It Be © 3-15-2010

By J. Joy "Sistah Joy" Matthews Alford

And what will it be
That thing
That brings dreams to life
That sets visions ablaze
In the minds eye
Of would be champions
Who dare to do new things
Based, not on charted paths,
But boldness of spirit
Quests for the best
With tests of integrity
Challenging every step of the way

What will it be
That breaks the mold
Of the old ways and views
That sees the need for something new
Takes hold of reality
Unleashing the vibrancy of possibility
Based on shifted and lifted expectations
Are we willing to do the work
Required for success
Knowing nothing less will do?

What passions would be awakened by purpose
Previously deaf due to circumstance
There will always be voices that say this is not the way
But will you stay the course
Commit your life force to what you know is true
A new tomorrow
One that inspires, uplifts and unshackles
Could be the prize
Let us dance to this new song
The very thing we have longed for
Awaits us,
Calls us to raise more than our voices
New choices will make the difference

Fate, that arbiter of tomorrow
No longer simply awaits our reply
But dictates that we feel the urgency
See the immediacy of need
Will we heed her call?
We have a choice
Today as we stand poised at destiny's door
The question remains
What will it be?