

Witchcraft Trials & The Meaning of Life

I read a lot about my ancestors when working on my family tree online. I run across many stories about women being hung for witchcraft. Many of them my great grand relatives.

What has always resonated with me when I read some of the earliest historical examples of the witchcraft trials in the U.S. of women being vilified for “acting outside of their accepted role,” it brings me today and I think things are not that much different? With the exception of we are no longer getting hung...

WE ARE ALL VICTIMS OF A PATRIARCHAL SOCIETY: SOME JUST SUFFER MORE THAN OTHERS.

The truth behind this propaganda is that some people just love to keep their power and they invent these convenient dichotomies. There is nothing natural about it.

The people in power continue to propagate this belief and the weak of mind continue to follow.

As I get older I get more cynical about the world and the people in it and their thought processes.

People continue to believe what they are taught in their religion, education and their parents brain washing throughout their lives. Some people are able to get away from their early teachings, but to many to not!

Which has led me to believe that nothing is ever going to change!

So you should ask yourself this this question, why are we here???

William Shakespeare once wrote, “All the world’s a stage, and all the men and women merely players...I truly believe this.

For as long as I can remember, I have been wondering “Why am I here?”. When teachers at school asked me what I wanted to do when I grew up, I would answer “I want to be happy”. But, this is not a job. So, I continued school, and I had good grades.

But after high school I did not want to go to school anymore. So I thought myself carpentry still not really knowing “Why am I here?”. Does it seem similar to you?

Because if “I” have succeeded in finding my place here, everyone can do the same. It won’t be easy, for sure, but the journey will lead you to your real deserved place with some good experiences, people and growth.

Three things I always said to myself throughout life:

I want health, happiness and enough money to live comfortably, in that order.

I can say for sure today at 74 years old I have achieved my goals.
