

The background of the entire page is a stylized, low-poly illustration of a suburban neighborhood. It features houses with gabled roofs, trees, and a flower in the foreground. The colors are muted and earthy, including shades of green, yellow, and brown. The style is reminiscent of a mosaic or a low-poly art style.

“Admiration”

An inspirational story of my mother by Carolyn Fuentes, Ed.D.

Admiration

Copyright 2007 Carolyn Fuentes, Ed.D.

All rights reserved. Printed in the United States of America. Except as permitted under the United States Copyright Act of 1976, no part of this publication may be reproduced or distributed in any form or by any means, or stored in a database or retrieval system, without the prior written permission of the publisher.

First Edition, printed by LuLu.com

"Admiration"

Memory of my father, Bennie

A figure of strength and loyalty, she represents. Truly, she sacrificed every bit of her childhood dreams. The man that once was her power, childhood partner, lifetime friend, and a father of all her glories doesn't exist anymore.

Her family thought that she would have been lost forever within his existence. But through time, I admired that she held her head up high and walked, so she says, “with the honor for God.”

I seek into her life, as if it were mine. Her virtue of patience, is, and has always been such a miraculous movement. Forty-five years of a marriage with two children, today, we take for granted.

How such a couple could have known each other at ages of fourteen years old and greet life's triumphs, with no bitterness, and with the intent of carrying out a dream that is unrealistic in our days, I'm sure was frightening.

