

*The Bedtime Solution for
“I Don’t Want to Go to Bed!”*

Dreams in My Dreambook is a magical bedtime story that rhymes through the beautiful dreams found in a child’s imagination. The dreams are brought to life through the vibrant and whimsical illustrations that will take children on a wonderful adventure.

The book was inspired by the author’s sons, and parents who have trouble motivating their children to get ready for bed. The concept of “My Dreambook” is meant to instill positive bedtime rituals, while encouraging important dialogue between parents and children. Bedtime is a precious time for children and parents to bond and explore their dreams. Once children are introduced to this bedtime story, they will look forward to the nightly ritual of sharing each others Dreambook stories.

An evolution of traditional bedtime favorites—it’s interactive! Dreams In My Dreambook encourages children and parents alike to develop their own Dreambook that they can share with each other. Dreams are universal, and what better way to encourage positive dialogue with children, and understand their likes and dislikes. Dreams In My Dreambook is the perfect way to end the day.

Stefanie Nastou is a corporate executive with over fifteen years experience in communications, marketing and public relations. Writing has always been a core part of Stefanie’s career, and she has managed to travel the world while balancing the role of executive, wife and mother. Stefanie is the mother of two boys Gregory (6 years) and Michael (3 years), who are the inspiration for this story. The dreams in the book illustrate her sons’ favorite things. Stefanie feels that seeing the world through the life of her children has provided her with some of the most fulfilling moments in her life. Stefanie strongly believes that bedtime is the most precious time of day for parents and children. This magical story gives parents the perfect venue to encourage positive bedtime rituals and launch into a dialogue with their children that will enrich their lives.
