

Income RICH Asset POOR: Race, Ethnicity & Wealth Inequality in America

Coming
Spring 2009

by Lori Martin

Income Rich, Asset Poor: Race, Ethnicity and Wealth Inequality, examines racial and ethnic differences on the types of assets owned and the levels of each asset owned over time.

The book examines the extent to which such issues as, national origin among Asians,

Blacks, Hispanics, Whites and Others, make a difference in terms of the types and levels of assets owned. Specifically, the focus is on several key indicators of income and asset ownership: home ownership, housing values, interest, dividends and rental income, business ownership, and business income. To what extent are racial and ethnic differences on these variables attributable to factors other than race and ethnicity? Drawing from census based data collected over several decades. Income Rich, Asset Poor addresses many thought provoking questions, including: Who is income rich and asset poor? Under what conditions do certain groups move from being assets to owners?
