Since elementary school, Melvia Miller has been a gifted storyteller and writer. Her talent and drive launched her into a lifelong career as an award winning, celebrated educator and author.

Melvia attended Ball State University where she became a member of Delta Sigma Theta Public Service Sorority. She used her skills as a writer to pen a popular weekly column in the BSU Newspaper titled: "From the Back of the Bus." She studied languages -- Spanish, Black History, and Sciences. She became one of the BSU Women's Judo Champs. And she was named to "Who's Who In American Universities And Colleges." Melvia is a graduate of Ball State University, the University of Michigan and she holds other credentials from several other colleges and institutes.

Later in life, she got married and started a family. In her professional career, Melvia has worked as a teacher, counselor, training manager, and consultant. She tested many of her methods -- games and exercises on her students -- and their grades improved as a result of her methods.

Her first major book was an epic poem titled "New and Different Friends." She presented it at a major event in Detroit in front of thousands of people and received an award. She is one of the founders of the concept of 'EDU-TAINMENT.' One year -- for a Black History Month event -- several students created a postage stamp with Melvia's picture on it -- and they dubbed her -- "The Soulful Dr. Seuss."

One of her greatest desires in life was to become a mother. She did have two wonderful healthy sons Malik and Mikal. Both young men have their college degrees and good jobs.

She has had a few setbacks in life, having suffered several major health challenges including an auto accident.

"During the time that I was suffering from the injuries, I discovered several effective ways to heal-- with the help of doctors, chiropractors, therapists, and herbs" she said. To the amazement of many people who thought she would spend the rest of her life in a wheelchair, Melvia is not in a wheelchair!

As a result of experiencing the power of natural remedies, herbs, and therapies, such as: massage and Tai Chi... Melvia compiled many of these remedies and published a full color book "Best Healers on Earth." -- and board-games -- plus a booklet of "Fun Ways to Learn" activities. She also has published more than a dozen other books on a variety of topics. Melvia learned that our bodies and minds will heal themselves -- given nutrition & proper care. Melvia is a very spiritual woman who believes... "It is an honor to help each other & strive to become light in others lives."

EDUTAINMENT ENTERPRISES offers these books, DVDs, newsletters, and board games that are designed based on her style of 'making learning enjoyable' -- utilizing pictures, humor, exercises, and experts' quotes -- that help make complicated topics easier to understand.

Her project -- "The wHolistic Academy" offers the best in natural, herbal health products -- as well as 'Home Study' Courses.

Her main mission and goals are to help empower other people. Some proceeds are donated to various non-profits and schools.
