

PURSUIT OF THE GOOD LIFE

A story of a young man caught up in a wave of mass exodus to the promised lands. A story that is stranger than fiction. A hearts and minds saga and sacrifice which spans back centuries right to the centre of the earth in Babel. A heart wrenching search for the good life as Esau tries to break through the global glass ceiling and returns to Kush. Evil pursues to sabotage his vision. It is political, humorous and soul-searching. It is a people's tribe, whose constipated existence is influenced by an invisible evil force which is greater than Africa. It is ordinary because it is written by the voiceless, the unheard, the muffled, and the muzzled. It is touching because people will do anything to have a good life. It is normal because everyone wants a good life. It is hopeful because good can overcome evil.

Read all about it! An ordinary people's reality saga!

Dear Grace,

I enjoyed reviewing your work immensely. It is full of such profound wisdom and messages we should all heed. I am truly impressed not only by your writing, but your immense talent in conveying such beautiful teachings!
