

Discover the funny, quirky world of collecting with a seasoned dealer/collector and an award-winning cartoonist, John Stinger. From rarified antiques and vintage collectibles to pop culture junkathons, Stinger takes you on a laugh-out-loud insider's journey of chasing treasures, with more twists and turns than your grandmother's repurposed settee!

No matter what your venue: picking-pawing, wheeling-dealing, estate auctions, flea, internet, or garage sale extravaganzas, this classic collection of humor, including 200 fresh-to-the-market cartoons, is a must-have for you, your friends, customers and others bitten by the collecting bug.

So buy the book, relax and enjoy the fun trip—you just can't do any better! (And there's no need to haggle over the price.)

John Stinger is a serious collector who also creates funny cartoons for leading publications serving the collectibles market. His first book, I Buy Junk. I Sell Antiques, published in 1992, is a pop culture classic. His single-panel cartoon, Collecting Classics, is featured in a number of major publications read by collectors and dealers worldwide.

When he's not chasing treasure (or painting landscapes), Stinger syndicates a general line of cartoon humor via Cartoon Stock in the US/UK and creates a monthly political cartoon distributed by Senior Wire Services.
