

Sample Chapter from Growing with the Goddess Gardener

by Cynthia Brian

Book I

Garden Shorts Series

www.CynthiaBrian.com/Books

1. JANUARY WHY I GARDEN

"In all things of nature there is something of the marvelous." Aristotle

In the blustery cold of post holiday days, I found myself wandering my landscape bundled against the chill in a warm down jacket, faux fur hood, and two pairs of gloves. The winds were intense. Tree limbs littered the driveway as entire branches arched towards the ground. The gale reddened my eyes, and although nothing in the garden demanded my immediate attention, I was determined to work outside.

In the midst of the storm, I asked myself, “Why do I love gardening so much?” As I raked the rubble, and pulled the errant weeds, a river of answers flooded my brain. After asking friends, family, and strangers the same question, it became obvious that although we all have our individual reasons, gardening gets into our blood and contributes to our unique personalities, passions, and preferences.

Here are reasons we choose to be gardeners:

Memories

Since I grew up on a 368 acre farm where we grew a great variety of organic fruits, vegetables, and herbs as well as a couple of acres of flowers, my fondest memories all have something to do with being in the dirt. I'll never forget the winter when my mom caught me picking her prized camellias. As she shouted and scolded, my devoted dog jumped between us growling at her. I learned the lesson that it was not okay to pluck flowers in any garden without permission, even if the bouquet I was picking was for my mother. She learned that our dog protected the kids first, even from our parents. Raising my own children, I wanted to give them opportunities that would trigger remembrances, whether it was harvesting the first beans, or burying a beloved pet. I still think about collecting blackberries for summer breakfasts at my grandparent's horse barn, learning to drive the jalopy in the orchard, and saving hollyhock seeds at Nonie's. A lifetime of fond memories grows in the garden.

Food

Growing your own food is the healthiest way to live. There is nothing better than eating a fresh, ripe tomato right off the vine. Oranges, grapes, apples, tangerines, cherries, and loquats...everything is sweeter and tastier when you grow it yourself. We amend our soil with organic compost so we know our harvests provide nutrients and health benefits from ground to table. By learning what grows well in each season, a gardener has a yearlong produce department right outside the door.

Exercise

Extended sitting has become the killer disease du jour. Gardeners get off the couch, unplug from the computer, and move outside in the fresh air. Digging, raking, hauling, lifting, planting, mowing, and hoeing are strenuous exercise. In fact, one hour of weeding burns approximately 300 calories for women and 400 for men, which is the same amount as moderate walking or cycling. Forty-five minutes of gardening equals thirty minutes of aerobics. Carrying buckets of stones, bricks, or water strengthens our muscles. We are cross training at every age.

Beauty

Gardeners are artists. Plants are the paint and our grounds are the canvas. Our unique creative styles offer solace to the senses. There is wonder and magic in the natural world and gardeners express themselves to surprise and delight. For those who live in snow country, the beauty of their snow laden winter wonderland rivals the burst of May flora after the melt. The first signs of crocus and daffodils in January lift spirits while the perfume of roses and bright hues of summer perennials remind us that the outdoors are for entertaining.

Pride

How exciting it is to grow a spectacular pear or a beautiful dinner plate dahlia! We feel a sense of accomplishment, of a job well done, something tangible that we manifested through our personalized manual labor. Being in the age of technology and big business, many of us don't use the motor skills in our work life that we use in the garden. We are proud of our calloused hands and muddy boots.

Connections

Not only do we feel a soulful connection with our Mother Earth, but also, we gain a better understanding of ourselves and of others. No matter what level we are in our gardening adventure, we connect and communicate with one another about our trials, triumphs, and hurdles. Many join garden clubs or become members of a community garden. Our social circles expand over the latest recipe we cooked with ingredients from our potagers, beds, and containers.

Sharing

A garden is to share. It is such a joy to bring a basket of extra corn, Swiss chard, lemons, or plums to a neighbor or friend. Gardeners distribute rose canes after January pruning, bouquets of flowers as hostess gifts, and volunteer plants that have been pulled for transplanting. We share our knowledge of what works and what doesn't work, short cuts we have found, and specimens that flourish in our area. We collect and dry seeds to give to those who could benefit. Without all of the slips, pinches, cuttings, and roots from my mother's garden, I wouldn't have my heritage showcase. If you've ever attended one of my garden presentations or seminars, you have benefited from the plethora of seeds, herbs, fruits, and other goodies I give away. Sharing is integral to a gardener's life.

There are so many reasons that we love to garden—rain, sleet, snow, or sunshine—that we'll continue this conversation in the next chapter. Incorporate as many ways to make this world a more beautiful place by doing what you love. Find the marvelous in nature.

Happy Gardening and Happy Growing!

For more information, visit www.CynthiaBrian.com

Books may be purchased at www.CynthiaBrian.com/online-store

25% of proceeds from Growing with the Goddess Gardener benefit the 501 c3 charity,

Be the Star You Are!® empowering women, families, and youth through increased literacy and positive media messages.

Tune into Cynthia Brian's LIVE weekly Radio Broadcast: www.StarStyleRadio.com

Other Books by Cynthia Brian include:

Chicken Soup for the Gardener's Soul

Be the Star You Are!® 99 Gifts

Be the Star You Are!® for Teens

Be the Star You Are!® for Millennials

The Business of Show Business

Miracle Moments®

The Blessings of Love and Relationships

CONTACT INFO:

Cynthia Brian

Starstyle® Productions, llc

PO Box 422

Moraga, Ca. 94556

Cynthia@Star-Style.com

925-377-STAR (7827)

www.CynthiaBrian.com