

CHAPTER THREE

The Difference Between Prayer Warriors and Intercessors

There are common characteristics and behaviors that are exhibited in Intercessors that are not as prevalent in prayer warriors; this I might add, does not mean prayer warriors are not important or effective, but the difference all things with God, consistency, dedication, and persistence matters. It matters a lot! A whole lot! Intercessors are relentless in their pursuit for deliverance, for God to move on their behalf or the behalf of those they pray and intercede for, and they have a heavy anointing of endurance and ability to travail in prayer! Breakthrough must happen, God must move, they will keep fasting and praying, and staying on the prayer w all until victory is won! Intercessors will press through when other long give up. They have a heart of a Lion! The Lion of the King of Judah! Hallelujah!!!

Prayer Warriors do well in what I like to call 'right now or acute prayers'. These are prayers that are needed to respond to an immediate need. Examples are conducting corporate prayer for church services are events. Praying over the local church needs, and prayer request that come from those asking for prayer. Intercessors also perform these functions but have been given a higher grace or anointing as they have graduated to deeper realms in the spirit, and often carry the prophetic or seer anointing! They are watchman! They stay on the wall. Often, they fast and pray for days, and their prayers are very strategic in nature. They have developed longevity in prayer and fasting time and have learned how to flow with the Holy Spirit in obeying the leading of his voice in warning others of impending danger or attacks try to be orchestrated by the enemy. Intercessory are watchmen on the wall! They pray during specific times of the day and night, also known as 'prayer watches'. It is important to know what type of prayers should be taking place during the various watches to be most effective. This will be discussed more in Volume 2.
