

CHAPTER 1

Sarah felt exceptionally chipper as she showered and dressed for her sixth and final past life regression session with M. Coffey. She had just received a text from John saying that he was staying on an extra week in Tahoe so this too may have added to her good mood. He had asked her if she wanted to join him and ski a few days but she replied that she was too busy but thanks anyway. Sarah was actually dreading having to go out with him again. She was terrible at telling guys she was no longer interested in them for dating and could they just be friends.

Sarah wasn't feeling very creative in the clothing department today so she kept it simple with blue jeans, kitten heel pink boots and a mauve sweater. At the last minute she grabbed her Kelly green down puffer vest with the brown fur collar and her yellow cashmere beanie. It was fall in LA and there was actually some coolness in the air today.

"Well, you're looking lovely today, Miss Thompson," Trevor Diamond warmly greeted Sarah, to her shock and delight. Sarah had finally received a compliment on her fashion sense from