

Who Are These So-Called Negroes Scattered In The Four Corners Of The Earth?

CHAPTER ONE

Self-Searching.

For centuries we have learned in the 1600s that the so-called Negroes were captured in Africa by Africans put in ships and brought to the four corners of the earth and sold as slaves. In the Americas, the so-called Middle East, England, and the Islands. They even have black history month telling how it happened in America. It appears everyone has their own stories about the so-called Negroes. The most famous out of the story, one might hear, is that Africans sold their own African into slavery. The other renowned saying is that these so-called Negroes are of Ham descendants and are cursed people. The question remains are any of the stories real? The so-called Negroes, on the other hand, do not know the history of their ancestors, aside from what the other nations are telling them. They do not have anyone left to tell them about the generations before them, so they think. Therefore, they only rely on what the other nation is saying. Many have taken trips to the motherland and tried to learn more about where they come from, but it still was not telling them much. Many of the so-called Negroes turn to DNA testing. Again, the DNA test does not tell them more than their gene is traced back to a country in Africa. Nonetheless, they still left clueless and with more unanswered questions. Understand Africa is a big continent. There are 54 countries located in Africa alone and an estimated 1500-2000 African languages, and many tribal groups. Thus, for these so-called Negroes to pinpoint where their ancestors come from, what language they spoke, if they belong to a tribal group, and their culture will be like finding a needle in a haystack. It requires extensive research, possibly traveling to Africa, and much reading.
