

Roopa's Fetish

When Roopa entered the bathroom that morning, the very thought that Raja Rao had his bath there earlier thrilled her sensuality, and as she undressed herself, she recalled his searching gaze that insensibly made her imagine him in that setting, which in turn, has induced pulsations in her frame that furthered her craving for his possession. So, showering herself leisurely and sighing for him longingly, at length, she reached for her soap, but seeing theirs, she was drawn to it impulsively. Thereafter, in her bath of fantasy, the soap became a fetish that freshened as well as excited her in equal measure.

Later that very evening,

When Sandhya came out from the bathroom, Roopa tried to goad him into it, but as he insisted that he would shower later, she went in there disappointed. Nevertheless, after her fetish-less bath, about to clear the clothesline, she changed her mind and chose to leave her dirty linen behind.

'Surely, he would scan my innerwear,' she thought thrilled about the possibility. 'That could be the reason why he insisted that I have my bath before him. What a clever lover! Won't he size my brassiere for his grasp and smell it as well for my body odour? When it comes to my panty, well.'

At that, the thought of his fetishism involving her bra and drawer created a sensation in her body, which made her shiver expectantly. 'Why not I confirm his doings by noting the arrangement,' she thought mischievously and arranged her lingerie meticulously.

Thereafter, as he went for bath, she kept time. While she visualized him handling her brassiere, she felt as though he were squeezing her breasts, and when she anticipated him to smell the thing, she felt as though his breath had warmed her breasts but above all, the idea that he would be toying with her panty pulsed her frame.

As he came out of it, lying in wait, she rushed into the bathroom, only to return from there in a fulfilled manner much later.

This is an excerpt from Benign Flame: Saga of Love, a free ebook in the Author's Den